

INVITATION Seminar with Professor Pier Luigi Sacco

Presentation of Ravello LAB 2009

14th September 2009, Stockholm

Ravello LAB is a European Think tank to find innovative and concrete solutions for culture, cultural heritage and activities in the fields of management and development. Federculture, Centro Universitario Europeo per i Beni Culturali and Formez (IT) are promoting Ravello LAB - International Forum, an annual meeting that aims at setting up a permanent forum of analysis, discussion and proposals on the relationship culture-development, which are presented in the Ravello Lab edition.

Ravello Lab in collaboration with the Representation of the European Commission in Stockholm, Swedish Ministry of Culture, Jönköping International Business School and Heritage Halland wishes you welcome to the presentation of the Ravello Lab new edition in Stockholm , September 14th, 2009.

This is one the official cultural events during the Swedish Presidency.

The consciousness that culture could represent the most suitable vehicle for strengthening identity of people in Europe has been confirmed with the publication of the European Agenda for culture in a globalizing world. Such document of the European Commission identifies which extraordinary potentialities culture has, as local development and social cohesion vehicle.

Key-note speaker is the world-known Professor Dr. Pier Luigi Sacco, who will give a lecture on 'system-wide cultural districts', which might be understood as a model of local development in which cultural activity displays significant strategic complementarities in a post-industrial contexts. In this scenario, culture drives the accumulation of intangible assets, such as human, social and cultural/symbolic capital, thereby fostering economic and social growth and environmental sustainability.
